APPENDIX A: QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS DURING THE EXTRAORDINARY GENERAL MEETING HELD ON 28 OCTOBER 2025

Questions pertaining to the PSP 2025, the ESOS 2025, the Proposed Participation and the Proposed PSP Grant

Some Shareholders asked what criteria would be applied in granting Awards and Options under the PSP 2025 and ESOS 2025, and whether such Awards and Options would reward past or future performance. In particular, they sought clarification on whether the Awards to be granted to Liang Chengwang under the Proposed Participation would reward past or future performance. A Shareholder also asked about the distinction between the PSP 2025 and the ESOS 2025. Another Shareholder queried whether the 15% of the share capital of the Company that may be issued under the ESOS 2025 would be in addition to the 15% that may be issued under the PSP 2025. A Shareholder also enquired as how the exercise price would be determined under the ESOS 2025.

The Company Secretary explained that, under both the PSP 2025 and ESOS 2025, Management would first identify and recommend eligible employees for participation, together with the basis for such recommendations. These may include rewarding past performance, for example the achievement of clear KPIs or recognising years of service, as both schemes are intended to motivate and reward employees. The relevant Committees would then exercise their discretion at the time of grant to decide whether to approve Management's recommendations. As an illustration, the Company Secretary highlighted that recent awards granted under the PSP 2015 were made to recognise past contributions, including the closing of high-value contracts and other major breakthroughs. The Company Secretary further noted that at this stage, the Company was only establishing the overall framework for the PSP 2025 and ESOS 2025 and specific terms (such as the KPIs or the exercise price for Options) would be determined at the time of grant, taking into account the prevailing circumstances and the individual employees concerned. Setting rigid criteria now, without considering future context, would reduce the effectiveness of the incentive schemes.

The Company Secretary further clarified that the Proposed Participation was intended to recognise and reward Mr Liang Chengwang's past performance, noting that his salary had remained unchanged for an extended period, while the Company had successfully secured several significant contracts during that time.

The Company Secretary clarified that Options under the ESOS 2025 and performance Shares under the PSP 2025 are different forms of incentives to employees of the Group. Performance Shares under the PSP 2025 are fully-paid shares issued or transferred to the recipients free of charge. In contrast, Options would be granted at a predetermined exercise price, which is the price that the employees will have to pay to subscribe for or purchase the Company's Shares when exercising the Options under the ESOS 2025. The general idea is hopefully that the Company's Share price will improve over time due to the Group's better performance as a result of the effort of the Group's employees.

As to the query on the size of total share capital of the Company that may be issued under the ESOS 2025, the Company Secretary explained that 15% is the limit for the aggregate of the Shares that may be issued or transferred under the PSP 2025 and the ESOS 2025, if passed at the EGM.

Mr Lawrence Chen Tse Chau (Chen Shichao) also added that in determining the exercise price of the ESOS 2025, the Company would deliberate and price it right as and the key objective of ESOS 2025 is to retain employees and to encourage them to drive the Company's growth especially when the future economic outlook remains uncertain.

Questions pertaining to the Share Option Agreement

Some Shareholders enquired on the rationale for the Share Option Agreement and why the Company had not proceeded with a placement or rights issue. In particular, a Shareholder enquired about the rationale for the length of five years of the Share Option period. A Shareholder also queried why the Exercise Price under the Share Option Agreement was set at S$0.030 per Option Share when the current market price of the Company’s shares are already trading above S$0.030 as at the date of the EGM. Some Shareholders asked as to whether there would be an offer under the Share Option Agreement to other Shareholders and if not, whether the Company would consider granting similar kinds of Share Options to all Shareholders. A Shareholder also asked if the Investors would not be required to subscribe for Shares in the Company if the share price fell subsequently.

The Company Secretary explained that the Share Option Agreement would allow the Company to draw down funds over the Share Option Period. Furthermore, the entire Share Option Agreement exercise can be completed more quickly than a rights issue (which would have taken 3 to 5 months to complete) and the rights issue would have incurred higher costs. The current structure, being a put-and-call arrangement, provided greater certainty to the Company as the Investors have undertaken to subscribe for Option Shares and this means that the Company can draw down on the promised funds as and when needed. This will also avoid the situation where the Company must urgently look for investors only when funding is needed. The Company Secretary further explained that while shares placed out to investors in a normal placement can be up to a 10% discount, the current Share Options carried a discount of 4.51% to the volume weighted average price (“VWAP”) of the Shares for trades done on the SGX-ST on 17 September 2025, being the preceding full market day, and up to the time the trading in the Company’s Shares was halted on 18 September 2025 at 11.13am, pending the signing of the Shares Option Agreement and release of the announcement on the same.

At this juncture, one of the Shareholder shared that he was of the view that the Share Option Agreement, being a put-and-call arrangement, was one that ultimately protected the Company and that he regarded it as fair. This is because while it is true that the Company’s Share price has increased recently, there was also the possibility of the Share price falling in the future. The Company Secretary also added that the Company retained the right to require the Investors to subscribe for Shares even if the Share price declined as this is a put-and-call arrangement.

As to the Share Option Period of five years, the Company Secretary clarified that the five-year period merely represented the available window for exercise and the Company is able to exercise all of the Share Options if it so wishes at any point in time within the five years. As an illustration, once the Resolution was approved at the EGM, the Investors have undertaken to subscribe for at least 10% of the aggregate number of their respective Option Shares. Thereafter, every three months, each of the Company and the Investors would have the right to require a further subscription.

The Company Secretary explained that while the Exercise Price might looked low at this juncture due to the increase in the Company’s Share price since the date of the Share Option Agreement, it should be noted that the VWAP of the Shares was S$0.0314 for trades done on the SGX-ST on 17 September 2025, being the preceding full market day, and up to the time the trading in the Company’s Shares was halted on 18 September 2025 at 11.13am, pending the signing of the Shares Option Agreement and release of the announcement on the same.

Mr Lawrence Chen Tse Chau (Chen Shichao) noted the Shareholders’ request for the Company to consider the possibility of granting similar kinds of options arrangement to all Shareholders and indicated that the Company would look into this possibility (potentially, a Rights Issue) if there needs to be another capital market exercise to raise funds.

A Shareholder asked as to whether the Company could share further details on the intended use of the capital raised by the Share Option Agreement.

Mr Liang Chengwang stated that the Company already has an established cultivation system for sweet potatoes in Liancheng County, Fujian Province and that part of the proceeds raised would be used to replicate this system in Hainan and other provinces in China. Additionally, a portion would be allocated to expanding the Group’s business network to other regions, including Asia, while another portion would be used to support the sale of sweet potato-related products in Singapore.

A Shareholder enquired whether the Investors would be abstaining from voting on Resolution 6 considering that they have an interest in the Resolution.

The Company Secretary clarified that the Investors have voluntarily abstained from voting on Resolution 6.

A Shareholder enquired whether the Other Investors would be privy to information unavailable to other Shareholders.

The Company Secretary clarified that the Other Investors has no access to any non-public information.

Some Shareholders queried whether any other listed company had entered into a similar Share Option Agreement.

The Company Secretary confirmed that there were other listed companies which had implemented similar put-and-call option arrangements with specific investors.

Post-meeting note: The Company noted that Tritech Group Limited had entered into an agreement with certain investors on 4 May 2022 whereby a put-and-call option was granted.
